Born from tragedy. Sustained by H.E.A.R.T.

In the fourteen years since we started, our programs have developed organically. When a hurricane changed the lives of thousands, members of the Sanders family rallied to meet the need. From that point on, it became so much bigger than one family.

It has taken families throughout the great city of Detroit to show up, to provide meals, to gather canned goods, distribute medical equipment, and even to ship bathtubs, toilets, and fixtures to Haiti.

Our corporate, small business, and community partnerships have made it all possible. When we asked, you stepped forward to invest the money and volunteers that we needed.

As we enter our 15th year, we need you even more.

We have changed our name, but our future is rooted in a legacy of service. That will never change.

The key to everything we do is our H.E.A.R.T. Vision. We bring hope, empathy, affection, resilience, and thoughtfulness to provide emergency relief to families in need.

RIISING TO THE OCCASION

Hard times can show you what you are made of. When the unforeseen and unthinkable happens in the lives of people everywhere, those affected need real help from real people.

DETROIT FAMILIES RESPOND

As a city, Detroit has experienced its own brand of devastation over and over. Yet, Detroiters are marked by their grit, their determination, and their staying power. They show up for each other and the world.
